

The Do Not Call list has made a huge difference in the quality of my home life. I work two jobs so am not home very often but it was a huge nuisance to have my home time constantly disturbed with unwanted phone calls.

I think it will be a travesty if the FCC weakens the Do Not Call list legislation. I realize telemarketers are just doing their job, but when I'm at home, I do not want to be disturbed constantly with phone calls soliciting unwanted products, services, etc.
